Regulations Regarding Use

1. Use licenses are required to publish, reproduce, transfer, create derivative works, distribute, perform, publicly display, exhibit, or offer for sale any material, or a portion thereof, subject to copyright in excess of fair use, as defined by copyright law, in any media, by any entity other than DSU Library.
2. All repeat or other uses not specified in the original use license agreement require a separate use licensing agreement.

3. Use licenses may be granted only for materials for which copyright has been explicitly transferred to DSU Library. The requestor is solely responsible for determining the copyright status. DSU is not liable for a requestor's use of materials in excess of copyright law.
4. Use licensing grants only one-time use for the specified uses agreed to in the use license for the specified project or purpose listed and does not give permission to transfer to another person, create derivatives, or subsequent use beyond those listed in the original use license.
5. Educational, personal research, scholarly presentation, dissertation research, or thesis research is considered fair use under copyright law and does not require a use license or fee.
6. Materials that are no longer protected by copyright are in the public domain and may be used for free without permission. The Library does not charge use fees, nor does it grant or deny permission to publish or otherwise use public domain materials.
7. A requestor must abide by Special Collections & Archives Reproduction & Use Licensing Policy and pay all fees.
8. Reproduction fees are independent of one-time use licensing fees. Reproduction and use licensing fees may be applied to the same material and recur with each use and request.
9. Rush orders are not accepted. All reproduction and use license requests will be processed as they are received, and will be completed at staff's availability.
10. All use license materials must be cited and attributed to DSU Special Collections & Archives and should include the material description or item number as available.

I have read the above "Regulations Regarding Use" policy governing the use of Special Collections & Archives at Dixie State University. I understand the regulations and agree to comply with them. I further understand that failure to comply with any of the regulations may result in the denial of the use of Special Collections & Archives materials and the withdrawal of my research privileges.
